

OTC tech news brief

Spring 2017

Check out These New Technologies

Now Available For Licensing From UT Austin

View complete list of technologies available for licensing here.

Technology Breakthrough Spotlight

UT Austin Engineering professor and lithium-ion battery inventor, John Goodenough, introduces new technology for fast-charging, noncombustible batteries.

- Related Media:
- The New York Times
  - Forbes
  - Newsweek
  - MidasLetter
  - Spectrum
  - Bloomberg

Featured OTC Programs

OTC Presents "Transforming Ideas Into Ventures" at SXSW

President Gregory Fennes welcomed a standing-room only crowd who gathered to hear about creating and sustaining a profitable venture.

Read More >

OTC Hosts NASA @ UT Austin

Representatives from NASA invited UT Austin students, Faculty, and Austin Entrepreneurs to collaborate.

Read More >

UT Austin Research Highlights

Check out more research @ UT Research Showcase

A New Era For Physics? With Creation of New Form of Matter, A Time Crystal Might Be Possible

Pedetes      Anomalurus

Human Skull Evolved Along with Two-Legged Walking, Study Confirms

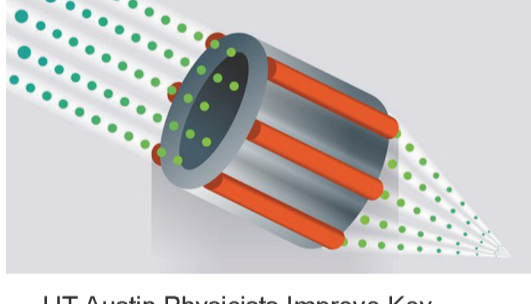

Experiments By UT Scientist, Using Rock Samples, Call Origin of Earth's Iron into Question.

Amazing GRACE: Celebrating 15 Years in Orbit

Source of Colossal Black Holes of the Early Universe Revealed -- "A Cosmic Miracle!"

UT Austin Physicists Improve Key Component of Future Atom Microscope

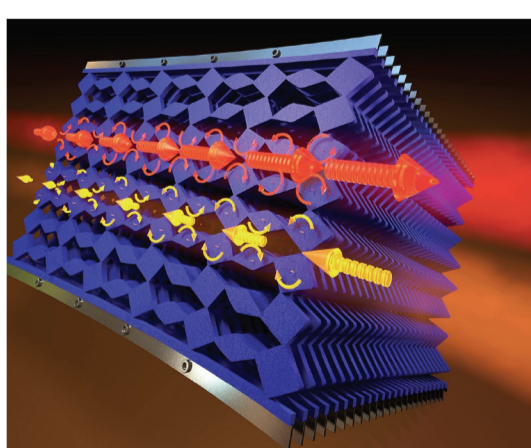

Vanishing Act: Scientists Find Possible Clue to Disappearing Bees

Silk-Based Optical Medical Patches That Disappear Into The Body

National Science Foundation Honors Eight UT Austin Professors with Early CAREER Awards

New Mechanical Metamaterials Can Block Symmetry of Motion, Findings Suggest

Subscribe to OTC tech news brief
Questions or comments. Email OTCmarketing@otc.utexas.edu

